Our indoor team event "Chain Reaction" is a fascinating and challenging interaction that promotes team spirit, creativity and communication. This can take place as a competition or as a joint task across teams.

Equipped with a variety of materials the participants must develop and build a chain reaction. As in the domino effect, the initial energy is intended to be carried continuously forward until the set goal is achieved. A great metaphor for everyday projects.

This team event is an excellent seminar accompanying social program or a separate training program for teams from all business segments.
